Position Management
2.1 Position Management Defined

What is position management?

- Position Management is the starting point for creating a job opening/posting.
- Position management maintains both Human Resources and Budget information for every authorized Faculty and Staff position (positions are optional for student positions).
- Defines Human Resources by position, rather than by employee.
- Defines key attributes of a position such as position number, department, job code, business title, FTE and reporting relationships. Job descriptions and Faculty job ads can also be attached to the position, facilitating the recruitment process in eRecruit.
- Defines funding distribution of a position such as funding effective dates and associated speedchart, for both salary and benefit expenses.

Why is it important? What are the advantages?

- Provides the ability to manage the University’s workforce by position, in addition to employees occupying those positions.
- Streamlines processes for recruiting and hiring Faculty and Staff.
- Provides committed budget funding and salary expenses for both filled and vacant positions.
- Fully integrated with UBC’s PeopleSoft HRMS and Oracle Hyperion budget system.
- Provides organizational reporting structure by position, which can then be linked to employees occupying those positions.
- Improved reporting and turnover analysis.

Important note: Only positions which are in an Approved or Draft Approval status and are in a department you have security access to can be updated.

To update a position you must insert a new effective-dated row. Existing data, with the exception of the Event Start Date, cannot be modified for these Positions.

Department approvals are automatically required for changes to any of the following fields:

- job code
- Change position from term to ongoing
- Change position from inactive to active
- Term extension
- New speedcharts
- Change to budget greater than 10%

Central approvals are automatically required where the ‘Central Approval Required’ checkbox is checked on (see Position Info Tab), and changes are made to any of the following fields:

- Job code
- Job description
2.4.3 Positions and effective dates

Click the plus icon to insert a new effective-dated row:

The importance of the Event Start Date field:

The Event Start Date or effective date of your position is very important. This date enables you to maintain a complete chronological history of all your position data, whether you changed them two years ago or want them to go into effect in two months. With this information, you can do statistical analysis at a particular point in time in the past, now or in the future.

The system also uses the Event Start Date field to compare pages and tables to system prompt tables that you see displayed throughout position management so that the data displayed is valid as of the effective date of the page on which you’re working.

The Event Start Date is particularly important when making changes to a position which affects the incumbents attached to it. Let’s take an example of a departmental reorganization. Several new departments are created and employees are being moved to them. You’ll want to update the department in position management to reflect this change and record when it went into effect using the Event Start Date. Then you’ll want to update the department (via Payroll eForms or appointment forms) for the employees attached to the position in their individual HRMS job records, using the same date. You’ll need to use the same date for both transactions in order to successfully record the department changes. If the position date has an Event Start Date which is greater than the employee’s department change in HRMS, the transaction required to update the incumbents’ job records will not be possible.
Correcting Event Start Date Entries:

The Event Start Date may be overwritten and corrected. If you get the error below when attempting to correct an Event Start Date, you must overwrite and correct the existing event start date(s) entries.

Do not select

When multiple Event Start Date entries require correction, ensure you correct them in correct chronological order, starting with the oldest date. Save your work after each Event Start Date correction.
2.4.4 Events and the Event Start Date

Enter Event and Event Start Date and make required changes to position:

- Event: When making changes to information which doesn’t involve a reclassification or position budget changes.
- 2. Update Position
  - When making changes to information which doesn’t involve a reclassification or position budget changes.

- 3. Reclassify Position
  - To record job reclassifications. However, for retroactive reclassifications, it is advised to create a new position.

- 5. Update Position Budget
  - To record position budget changes.

Event Start Date: When making changes on a pushed back transaction, ensure you use the same date you used on the submitted transaction.

Sequence: The sequence number is connected to the Event Start Date and defaults automatically. All unique event start dates are connected to sequence number zero. When multiple effective dates are entered with the same value, the sequence numbers will be assigned sequentially. The system considers the event start date/sequence combination which has the highest sequence number as the correct transaction.

To illustrate this concept, consider the following example:

In addition, when hiring an incumbent into a position, the incumbent’s hire date cannot precede the initial Event Start Date of the position. Using the example above, you could not hire someone into this position with these dates prior to July 1, 2010.

Make any changes required to the position information. Note that certain changes made to the position information, may require re-approval. For example, changing the position classification information and/or job description may require re-approval if the job classification type warrants ((i.e., M&P positions).

Click on the appropriate Submit button to submit your position for approval.
